

About Jobs

The Jobs user interface provides a log of your queries and data imports. Having your jobs listed in one area allows you to quickly review the status of jobs and to review more closely the details of each job. This can be helpful in understanding how and why a query, import, or export succeeded or failed. It also allows users to reuse queries from other jobs and to refine queries for more efficiency.

You are able to view the past 90 days of jobs run by users in your organization. Complete audit logs of all jobs run beyond the 90 days are also available through subscription to that service.

In Jobs Activities, you can view the type and status of all jobs along with who authored each job and when. Additionally, you can use filters to find the jobs you want to view. To find out more about a specific job, you can select that job for the details.

The screenshot shows the 'Job Activities' page with a table of job logs and a filter sidebar on the right. The table has columns for Status, Job, Started, Runner, and Database. The filter sidebar includes sections for Database, Owner, Started After, Started Before, STATUS, and ADVANCED.
